“Our civilization . . . . is founded on coal, more completely than one realizes until one stops to think about it. The machines that keep us alive, and the machines that make machines, are all directly or indirectly dependent upon coal. In the metabolism of the Western world the coal-miner is second in importance only to the man who ploughs the soil. He is a sort of pillar “upon whose shoulders nearly everything that is not grimy is supported. For this reason the actual process by which coal is extracted is well worth watching, if you get the chance and are willing to take the trouble.”

George Orwell, “Down the Mine” (1937)

Taking a nod from Orwell, this course examines the critical role extractive industries played in the economic, political and social history of the United States since the late 1800s. Topics discussed in the course will include labor movements, science and industry, foreign policy and natural resource dependence.

Course Format and Requirements

Required Texts and Technology

Thomas Andrews, Killing for Coal

All other readings will be posted on TritonED

i>clicker – to be purchased from the UCSD Bookstore in the Price Center. This will enable you to join in class discussions and earn course points on quizzes and lecture participation. I will explain in class how to register your i>clicker. Clicking in for someone else constitutes academic misconduct and will be reported immediately to the Academic Integrity Office.

Classroom Technology Etiquette

Let’s talk.

Issues to consider

1. Deadlines: Deadlines for the papers and other assignments are strict and will be enforced (including penalties).

2. Principles of Academic Integrity: "Integrity of scholarship is essential for an academic community. The University expects that both faculty and students will honor this principle and in so doing protect the validity of University intellectual work. For students, this means that all academic work will be done by the individual to whom it is assigned, without unauthorized aid of any kind."

3. Maintaining Academic Integrity and the i>clicker—Clicking in for someone else constitutes academic misconduct and will be reported immediately to the Academic Integrity Office.

4. Grading: All appeals must be made in writing within two weeks of receiving the initial grade. Your grade may go up, go down, or remain the same, depending upon the merits of the case.

5. The UC San Diego Teaching and Learning Commons Writing and Critical Expression Hub offers tutoring on the writing process and writing skills. To sign-up for a one-on-one appointment go to https://commons.ucsd.edu/students/writing/index.html.

Academic Integrity

Students are expected to complete the course in compliance with the instructor’s standards. No student shall engage in any activity that involves attempting to receive a grade by means other than honest effort; for example:

- No student shall knowingly procure, provide, or accept any unauthorized material that contains questions or answers to any examination or assignment to be given at a subsequent time.
- No student shall complete, in part or in total, any examination or assignment for another person.
- No student shall knowingly allow any examination or assignment to be completed, in part or in total, for himself or herself by another person.
- No student shall plagiarize or copy the work of another person and submit it as his or her own work.
- No student shall employ aids excluded by the instructor in undertaking course work or in completing any exam or assignment.
- No student shall alter graded class assignments or examinations and then resubmit them for regrading.
- No student shall submit substantially the same material in more than one course without prior authorization.

For more information, please consult the UCSD Policy on Integrity of Scholarship here.

UCSD Principles of Community

To foster the best possible working and learning environment, UCSD strives to maintain a climate of fairness, cooperation, and professionalism. These principles of community are vital to the success of the university and the well being of its constituents. UCSD faculty, staff, and students are expected to practice these basic principles as individuals and in groups.

- We reject acts of discrimination based on race, ethnicity, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, religion, and political beliefs, and we will confront and appropriately respond to such acts.
• We affirm the right to freedom of expression at UCSD. We promote open expression of our individuality and our diversity within the bounds of courtesy, sensitivity, confidentiality, and respect.

• We are committed to the highest standards of civility and decency toward all. We are committed to promoting and supporting a community where all people can work and learn together in an atmosphere free of abusive or demeaning treatment.
